Base Pay

Approach

How are base pay decisions made?

Rewards decisions are always made in the context of the market, affordability and business outlook. As always, we evaluate base pay increases considering business performances, affordability and market conditions each year. Given the context of our performance and the moderation of market pay, we will not be providing any stay-at-level (base pay) increases this year except where legally mandated or committed.

Bonus

Approach

How are decisions on bonuses made?

Talent leads personalize bonus awards considering an individual's impact and achievements over the past year. They use insights from the talent discussions and award the highest bonuses to those who have had truly distinctive achievements. Keep in mind that as individual performance varies from year to year, bonuses are likely to vary from year to year as well.
